

Juliette Makara is from Arlington Heights, Illinois. She started dancing at the age of three years old. Juliette has studied ballet, tap, modern, and jazz. She has a minor in dance from Southern Illinois University and danced with the Southern Illinois Dance Company throughout her college years as a member and choreographer for the company. She was also a competitive baton twirler for 16 years winning many Illinois State and Midwest Regional titles along with placing top five at the National Baton Twirling Championships. Juliette was a member and now, assistant coach of the National and World Champions, Silver Knights Baton Twirling Corps. She is very excited to share her love of dance with young dancers today.
